May, 2010

Presidents Corner

As a result of the article on the Charlotte Woodcarvers Club on May 9, 2010, considerable response has been received by club members from the public. Twenty three carvers - carving in the round - were carving on Tuesday, May 2 as we were interviewed regarding wood carving techniques, tools, etc. Caroline McMillian was the reporter for the Charlotte Observer and the two page article, with wonderful pictures, was featured in the South News Section of the Observer. A good time was had by all.

Library Demonstration

The next Charlotte Woodcarving free demonstration for the public will be held at Mathews Branch Library in the Mathews Town Hall building. Laura Highfill, Supervisor of the library, will have signage publicizing the Club and facilities for a very visible display. The date of this demonstration is June 12, 2010 from 10am to 1pm. Approximately 12-14 carvers have signed up for this. We will have information for the interest of potential new members at this demo. Previous demonstrations at the South Regional Library on March 13 and Morrison Regional Library on May 1 have generated a lot of interest by the public in woodcarving - for parents, grandparents, youth.

Welcome New Members!
